

GLOBAL HEALTH STUDIES

2022-2023 HIGHLIGHTS

BY THE NUMBERS:

20

Years of Global Health Studies!

424

Global Health Studies majors and minors

113

Students graduated this year (largest class in history)

1200+

Graduates engaged with the world

65

Accelerated Public Health Program (BA/MPH) students enrolled since inception (2017)

15

Fulbright winners since adjunct major established in 2017

PROGRAM NEWS

- Director Bill Leonard honored as Watkins Family Professor of Global Health (photo above)
- Prof. Beatriz Reyes presented the Second Annual Carlos Montezuma Native Health Lecture at Northwestern's Feinberg School of Medicine titled "Indigenous People Navigating Healthcare in a Dystopian Society."
- GHS student Shae Murphy, awarded the prestigious Obama-Chesky Voyager Scholarship for Public Service.
- Elizabeth Hyun won the Circumnavigator Travel Grant to conduct psychotraumatology research in post-conflict countries, making her the 3rd GHS student to win the award.
- Drs. Elham Hoominfar and Charlayne Mitchell officially joined Global Health Studies as permanent faculty, expanding expertise in environmental health.
- GHS received awards from the Provost's Hollister Lecture Fund and the Alumnae of Northwestern to host guest speakers in Global Health

Northwestern sends team to Emory Global Health Case Competition in Atlanta